Mission Solar is Non-PFE (FEOC Compliant)

Mission Solar Energy has completed a third-party review of our ownership and has been verified as a non-Prohibited Foreign Entity (PFE) under applicable U.S. law and Treasury guidance.

(see reverse for additional detail)

Additionally, we have received certification from our suppliers confirming their non-PFE status. Please see the table below for more information on the non-PFE status for our components.

Non-PFE requirements, established under recent federal legislation like the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) and the One Big Beautiful Bill Act (OBBBA) set the rules for qualifying for clean energy tax incentives. They replace earlier FEOC frameworks and focus on limiting involvement from certain foreign entities in the supply chain.

Because every business situation is different, you should work with your own tax and legal advisors to confirm eligibility for clean energy incentives.
